

---

Gallery

Standing Against Racism at Jay Heritage Center in Rye

by Luke Lavoie

Approximately seventy members of the public and government officials visited the Jay Heritage Center in Rye on Friday to take a "Stand Against Racism".

In attendance was Sen. Suzi Oppenheimer, State Assemblyman Robert J. Castelli, Westchester Deputy County Executive Kevin Plunkett, former Rye City Mayor Steve Otis, Rye Town Supervisor, Joe Carvin and others.

The event was co-sponsored by the YWCA of White Plains and featured poet, painter, writer, and playwright, lyaba who performed a portion of his current play "Unframed" produced by Tony Award winner Jane Dubin.

Photo Credit: Cutty McGill

